

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to a system (and devices) for controlling the moisture in wood frame building walls by controlled forced ventilation. The object of the invention is to improve the long term structural performance of the wall by keeping the moisture in the wall cavity below acceptable levels. The invention can also be used to help identify possible water related breaches or defects in the wall at specific locations.

RECEIVED AT THE
U.S. PATENT
AND TRADEMARK
OFFICE
MAY 10 2001

R1